

CRAIG'S CHARTER PROVIDES FULLY FOR HOME RULE

Under It Government of City
Would Be Determined by Own People.

Comptroller Charles L. Craig, made the following statement to-day relative to the Home Rule Charter submitted by him to the Charter Revision Commission this afternoon:

"Under the Home Rule Charter the Legislature will give to the City of New York the largest measure of self-government possible under the present Constitution. New York is far behind other States where home rule has been secured to municipalities as a matter of constitutional right; and home rule in New York can never become fully effective except by constitutional amendment.

"Under the Home Rule Charter the Municipal Assembly, consisting of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment and the Board of Aldermen, would be the legislative body of the City of New York, and by ordinance would enact all legislation concerning local affairs.

"This means that the government of New York City would be determined by its own people rather than by residents of remote sections of the State. When the provisions authorizing the city to own, control and operate its public utilities, and to regulate those privately-owned within the city, become effective, the Transit Commission and the Public Service Commission will cease to function in this city.

"Aside from the creation of a Municipal Assembly no material change is made in the present form of Government. The Mayor, Comptroller, President of the Board of Aldermen and Borough Presidents are continued with practically their present duties. A majority of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment must include the votes of two of the members from the city at large. The Corporation Counsel is made elective. The Municipal Assembly, in the exercise of its legislative powers, would have authority to abolish or consolidate the departments, bureaus and offices; to determine the number of employees in the city and county offices and fix the compensation of all except elective officers.

"Elective officers may be removed by the Municipal Assembly by proceedings similar to impeachment instead of by the Governor as heretofore.

"The Home Rule Charter provides for a strong and responsible representative government. It is in effect the Constitution of Greater New York. It contains about 7,000 words as against the more than 400,000 words of the present charter, to say nothing of hundreds of special statutes.

"It is not to become operative unless approved upon a referendum by the people of the city."
